

1966	International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights
1979	Convention on the Elimination of All forms of Discrimination against Women
1984	Convention against Torture and other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment
1986	Declaration on the Right to Development
1989	Convention on the Right of the Child
1993	The Vienna Declaration and Program of Action-World Conference of Human Rights
1993	Protection of Human Rights Act, 1993 was enacted and enforced in India

Further it may be mentioned that in India various laws have been enacted to protect the Human Rights of people. Some of the laws in India which aim to protect the Human Rights of citizens in particular and people in general are as follows:

Sl. No.	Act/ Law
1.	Constitution of India, 1950 especially the following provisions: - <ul style="list-style-type: none">- Fundamental Rights- Directive Principles of State Policy- Adult Franchise and Right to Property- Scheduled Castes Commission- Scheduled Tribes Commission
2.	Protection of Civil Rights Act, 1955
3.	National Commission for Women Act, 1990
4.	National Commission for Minorities Act, 1992
5.	Protection of Human Rights Act, 1993
6.	Right to Information Act, 2005
7.	Protection of Child Rights Act, 2005

Conclusion

In sum it can be safely said that Human Rights are essentially rooted in asymmetric relations existing between entities such as State, Society, Community, Individual etc. Human Rights can be strengthened with commitment of the community to the 'Rule of Law' as reflected in the Constitution of India and the UN Charter.

Sh. Raj Singh Niranjani is an author & Law officer. He can be reached at raj.singh.niranjani@gmail.com